Sierra Wireless EM5625

Account Activation and Configuration

You require an account with a EVDO service provider to use the EM5625 module. Activation is the process of setting up that account. Follow these steps to activate an account and configure your EM5625 to use your account.

1. When Connection Manager is run for the first time the Activation Wizard will auto-launch.
2. Click next then gather the information listed on the second window of the wizard, then contact a service provider. (See the Sierra Wireless website, www.sierrawireless.com if you require contact information.)
3. You must provide the ESN (Electronic Serial Number) of your EM5625 to the service provider. This is displayed within the wizard. It also can be found on the bottom on the laptop on a label marked ESN.
4. You will be given an activation code that you must enter to access the window in which you enter the phone number provided to you by your service provider. The service provider also gives you an SID (System ID) that must be entered into the wizard.
